PACKING LIST SUGGESTIONS

As a year-round mountain destination, it pays to be as prepared as possible for each distinct season in Kalispell. Our best advice: pack clothing that can be layered as the weather can (and will) fluctuate during the day. discoverkalispell.com/packing-list

❄️ WINTER

You'll want sturdy and warm boots, winter jackets, gloves and hats, SPF, sunglasses and lip balm, as the average highs in January are 31° F with lows in the teens.

🌿 SPRING

With warm days and cold nights – and a potential for late season storms you'll want cold season insulated clothing like fleece and moisture-wicking apparel, as well as short-sleeved activewear. Don't forget a hat. (We recommend a beanie.)

🔴 SUMMER

Longer days offer temperatures in the 70s to 90s, while nights cool down. Be sure to have a long-sleeved layer available. Montana's climate is dry; pack a reusable water bottle to stay hydrated. Be sure to bring a baseball hat, shorts, SPF and sunglasses, too.

🍁 FALL

A light packable down jacket is good for the comfortable daytime temps and cooler nights. Other recommended items include transitional footwear, hats, long-sleeved flannels and beanies.

LET'S TAKE CARE OF THIS PLACE, TOGETHER. HERE'S HOW.

In Kalispell, we believe in the power of travel and know that it has a way of opening our eyes to people, places and cultures through new experiences. And while travel is vitally important, an influx of visitors inevitably has an impact on a destination – including ours – which is why we're big advocates of responsible travel. This place means so much to every single person who calls it home and we want to do our part to help take care of it, including sharing information with visitors and residents about how to #RecreateResponsibly.

KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

Prior to your trip, check the weather in your destination to help ensure you pack properly and are as prepared as possible.

PLAN AHEAD

Certain times of year (we're talking about you, summer) can be busy in Kalispell. Make reservations in advance, pack your patience and bring essentials you'll need, including a small first-aid kit. Be flexible and have a backup plan. If you're road tripping, be sure to have water, snacks, a blanket, ice scraper, jumper cables and more. Keep in mind that cell service can be spotty; download a trail map or pick one up at the Kalispell Visitor Center, located at 15 Depot Park.

LEAVE NO TRACE

Become a steward of the outdoors by practicing the seven Leave No Trace principles, including disposing of waste properly, practicing "pack it in, pack it out" and leaving the outdoors as you found them.

When it comes to trash and waste, be sure that whatever you bring into a place (food, garbage, waste, etc.), comes out with you and is properly disposed of. Take only photos, leave only footprints. Learn more at lnt.org.

STICK TO TRAILS

Wander with wonder, but always stick to the trails and camp in existing campsites. Why? When you minimize your impact, you protect plants, animals and yourself.

BUILD AN INCLUSIVE OUTDOORS

Everyone deserves to feel the magic of Kalispell and Montana. Make outdoor spaces safe and welcoming for all, and be sure to share those experiences with others.

LEAVE WILDLIFE WILD

If you spend much time in Montana's outdoors, chances are you'll encounter wildlife. Remember to view all animals from a safe distance, never approach or feed them and carry bear spray when hiking, backpacking and camping.

YOU CAN PREVENT WILDLAND FIRES

While natural wildfires are part of a healthy ecosystem, too many of them are human-caused. When recreating outdoors, it's vital that you use fire responsibly. Use only designated fire pits, keep your campfire small, properly dispose of matches and cigarettes and fully extinguish your fire. Be sure to know local fire restrictions.

DOWNTOWN KALISPELL

Northwest Montana's Heartbeat

A visit to downtown Kalispell is like walking into a storybook. With wide avenues and streets that are made for strolling, it's best to park your car and meander as you marvel at the way history and modern-day offerings effortlessly meet.

On Main Street, you'll find locally owned stores, bakeries, coffee shops, boutiques, spas, restaurants and watering holes in historic and welcoming storefronts from the early 1900s. Our best advice: take your time. Along the way you'll meet locals and shop proprietors and chances are they'll be ready to share all about their wares, as well as provide insider tips on where to grab a bite to eat, the best place to catch the sunset and other not-to-be-missed Kalispell experiences.

With the recent openings of several new businesses joining the ranks of longtime establishments, you'll also find a resurgence of new energy in downtown. The late 19th-century Kalispell Mercantile Building recently welcomed the KM Bar and Mercantile Steak, where patrons can dig into Montana favorites like burgers and steaks while enjoying libations from local breweries, distilleries and cider houses.

Venture a block off the main drag and you'll be greeted with hidden gems, including vintage clothing shops, outdoor gear specialists and more. Take time to walk, ride or drive the tree-lined avenues for a glimpse at Kalispell's past, including Victorian-style houses.

Beyond shopping, dining and drinking, downtown also serves as a getaway to the area's past. Take a deep dive into the art, history and culture of Kalispell by visiting the Conrad Mansion Museum (we recommend taking a guided tour), perusing the galleries at the Hockaday Museum of Art and visiting the Northwest Montana History Museum. Soak up more of Kalispell's lively arts scene by setting out on a self-guided mural tour throughout town.

No matter what you're looking for, there's a good chance you'll find it in downtown Kalispell.

FAT BIKING

Fat biking – which is done on a bike with oversized tires – is a great way to cover winter terrain while breathing in Montana's fresh mountain air. Ideal terrain includes snow-packed roads and trails where biking is permitted, including Herron Park and The Whitefish Trail. Rent a fat bike locally at Sportsman & Ski Haus.

SLEDDING

Bundle up in warm clothes, grab your hot chocolate and sled and head to our favorite local hills at Dry Ridge Park and Lawrence Park – both in Kalispell's city limits – for an exhilarating family ride.

HORSE-DRAWN SLEIGH RIDES

THE BACKBONE OF THE WORLD, GLACIER NATIONAL PARK

Encompassing 1 million acres, Glacier National Park is one of the world's most spectacular places. Carved by glaciers thousands of years ago, today the park is home to a largely intact and untouched ecosystem that includes 71 species of mammals and 1,132 species of plants. Inside its boundaries visitors will also find the iconic Going-to-the-Sun Road, 734 miles of trails and over 700 lakes.

From Kalispell, Glacier National Park's west entrance is a scenic 32-mile drive. And as the park is open year-round, it's easy to visit any time of year, using Kalispell as your home base.

The west entrance, which is located just past the town of West Glacier, will take you directly onto the Going-to-the-Sun Road, as well as to Apgar Village and Lake McDonald. During the summer season, the Going-to-the-

Sun Road is open in its entirety (exact dates fluctuate as it's weather dependent) and the 52-mile-long road takes travelers through the heart of the park over Logan Pass before ending at the park's east entrance in St. Mary. While all of the park is accessible in summer, it's also the busiest time of year to visit.

fall offers a similar experience to summer on Glacier's roads, trails and waterways, but with the addition of stunning fall foliage and fewer visitors. The full length of the Going-to-the-Sun Road is typically open until early October (exact closing date is weather dependent), offering access to trails and scenic overlooks along the road's corridor.

In the depths of winter, Glacier is full of shades of bright emerald, glacier blue and snow-covered terrain, all perfectly complemented by sun-kissed landscapes. Step into cross-country skis or snowshoes and experience the serenity that's found in the park during this time of year. Surrounded by towering crags, the quiet of your snowshoes blends with the babble of McDonald Creek, showcasing the park in its most peaceful state. Guided excursions are offered by the Glacier Institute and Glacier Treks. Reminder: even if you don't want to ski or snowshoe, you can always drive to Apgar Village for a picture-perfect view of Lake McDonald.

Spring in Glacier National park means hiker and biker access of the Going-to-the-Sun Road before it opens to vehicle traffic, as well as the opening of lower-elevation trails. Vehicles are able to travel to Lake McDonald Lodge or Trails of the Cedars on the west side, and can frequently access Rising Sun on the east side, depending on snow removal. Bikes are available for rent in Apgar Village, Kalispell or by taking a guided bike tour with Glacier Guides.

Ready for an in-depth visit to the Crown of the Continent? Explore beyond well-trodden paths and participate in cultural programs and guided tours.

- Held from June - September, Native American Speaks programs share the history and culture of the Blackfeet, Salish, Kootenai and Pend d'Oreille tribes. Tribal members share through stories, singing and other presentations, with programs taking place at park campgrounds and lodges. ## What You Need to Know When Visiting Glacier National Park in 2022

The National Park Service is continuing its seasonal vehicle reservation system for 2022. The program helps manage high-traffic areas in the park during the peak summer months, including the scenic Going-to-the-Sun Road corridor and the North Fork.

Here's what you need to know:

- The vehicle reservation system will be in place from May 27-September 11, 2022.
- Vehicle reservations are required for all access points along the Going-to-the-Sun Road, including West Glacier, Camas Creek and Rising Sun (5 miles past St. Mary) between 6 a.m. and 4 p.m. In addition, there will be an entrance checkpoint along Camas Road. Going-to-the-Sun vehicle reservations are valid for three days.
- New for 2022, visitors to the North Fork area of Glacier National Park will need a vehicle reservation at the Polebridge entrance

- station from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Vehicle reservations for the North Fork/Polebridge entrance station are valid for one day.
- No vehicle reservations are needed for other areas of the park, including Cut Bank, Many Glacier and Two Medicine. However, it is expected that these areas will see increased traffic and congestion in 2022.
- In addition to a vehicle reservation for the North Fork and/or the Going-to-the-Sun Road, all visitors need a current park pass, for all areas of the park. Park passes are valid for seven days and can be purchased at recreation.gov or at entrance stations.

NORTHWEST MONTANA'S FLORA AND FRUIT

If you're into wildflower peeping, there is no shortage of places to soak up incredible flora in northwest Montana. While you have to work harder to see some wildflowers (we're talking about you beargrass), you'll also be greeted by some of the state's happiest flowers – like arrowleaf balsamroot – on drives along Montana's backroads or on leisurely hikes. Wildflowers are in full force from May through September.

BEARGRASS

Native to Montana, beargrass is one of the state's most iconic flowers. Stalks can reach up to five feet in height, while individual rosettes will only bloom once. Abundant spring rain and moist soil tends to lay the groundwork for blooming beargrass, with blooming starting in late May and continuing into August, depending on elevation.

Where to see: Jewel Basin

ARROWLEAF BALSAMROOT

An early-season bloomer, arrowleaf balsamroot tends to prosper in the dry lands of the West and from April through July you'll spot it along mountain roads, trail systems and mountain meadows. It's an important food for sheep, deer and elk and garnered its name from the shape of its leaves and the fragrant resin in the roots that smell like balsam fir. Several Indian tribes used it medicinally and for food.

Where to see: Foy's to Blacktail Trails

INDIAN PAINTBRUSH

With more than 21 species of Indian paintbrushes in Montana, you'll often spot this flower – which comes in shades of red, orange and even yellow – along hillsides and trails. A semi-parasitic flower, it relies on other plants' root systems to grow, which means they bloom alongside other wildflowers.

The best times to see them: May - September. Where to see: Columbia Mountain Trail

TAMARACKS

A tree that is both deciduous and coniferous, tamaracks (which are commonly called Western larch in Montana as both are from the Larix family), have green needles like pine or spruce, but unlike other evergreen trees, their needles don't stay on year-round. Every fall, the needles on the trees turn shades of orange and yellow, painting the hillsides and mountains with vibrant colors before dropping for the season. Where to see: Hungry Horse Reservoir

Kalispell sits in one of the most fertile farmland valleys in Big Sky Country — the Flathead Valley. A drive around Flathead Lake will take you past local orchards that raise fruits like Flathead cherries, peaches, pears and more. Meanwhile Montana's high elevations are the perfect place for huckleberries to grow in the wild. Time your visit right and you can pick these perfect purple berries yourself. You'll also see them in various products like ice cream, candles, licorice, spirits, and sauces.

CHERRIES

The Flathead Valley is famous for growing cherries, especially in the fertile soils around Flathead Lake. With more than 100 cherry growers in the area, you'll find a diverse variety that includes lapin, sweetheart, rainier, van, stella, lambert and skeena. The harvest season typically runs from the second week of July through the second week in August, with many orchards offering u-pick options. Spring is also a beautiful time to see the cherry trees blossom around the shorelines of Flathead Lake.

HUCKLEBERRIES

While researchers and farmers keep trying to domesticate Montana's favorite purple berry, huckleberries do not like to be tamed and only grow in the wild. You can find – and pick – them in northwest Montana, with prime locations that include Glacier National Park and the Flathead National Forest. Huckleberries ripen in mid- to late-summer and typically reach their peak in August. And if you don't want to pick your own, you can often find them at roadside fruit stands in late summer.

Rails to Trails of Northwest Montana

Rails to Trails (RTT) of Northwest Montana began in 1989 when a group of locals wanted to bring the success of rails to trails projects in other states to the Flathead Valley. The mission of the 501(c)3 is to convert abandoned railroad beds to non-motorized, year-round recreational trails that offer a safe, enjoyable alternative to roadways.

The work on the trail started in 1992 and today the trail begins at Flathead Lake in Somers and runs north along Highway 93 to downtown Kalispell then west to Kila. The completion of the U.S. Highway 93 bypass put it all together and added an extension of the trail to the north. New for the summer of 2022, the Kalispell Parkline Trail in downtown Kalispell will connect to the Great Northern Trail, bringing people from downtown to open space, waterfowl protection areas and Lone Pine State Park.

RTT aligns with the Flathead Trails Association, a roundtable group of area trail organizations working to create better continuity and connectivity of trails. The group's long-term vision is a paved trail system that runs from Glacier National Park to Flathead Lake. The local nonprofit utilizes volunteers for the bi-annual trail cleanup and for trail beautification projects, such as Tunnel Vision, a current project to beautify three pedestrian tunnels along the trail. They are currently fundraising and seeking volunteers for the next phase of the project — painting the tunnel at Lone Pine State Park.

THE SWEET TUNES OF MONTANA MUSICIANS

Mike Murray, has a voice that is honest, direct and embodies the pureness of a classic folk storyteller. He is often found playing at The KM Bar, Harbor Grille Lakeside and Sacred Waters Brewing Company.

mikemurraytunes.com

Murray, a Kalispell native shared that "A huge part of why I love living here so much is now that I'm a father, I know how incredible it was growing up in Kalispell. It's really neat to be able to provide that same experience for my daughter."

"I have a lot of conversations with people who probably don't understand the nuances and difficulties of the music industry, that say things like why are you here? You gotta get out of here. You gotta go to Nashville, LA or New York. The biggest reason for me is that there's so many things I love about living here that I would rather sacrifice an opportunity to be somewhere that would be considered a larger music market so that I can have the other holistic lifestyle things that I value so much here. It would be hard to give those up just to advance my career."

OTHER LOCAL ARTISTS TO CHECK OUT IN KALISPELL:

MICHELLE RIVERS

ANDREW RAYMOND SWEENEY

SHANE VANVELDHUIZEN

Chef de Cuisine, Mercantile Steak and KM Bar

Shane VanVeldhuizen knows a good thing when he sees it. And that good thing? Downtown Kalispell. As the Chef de Cuisine at Mercantile Steak and the KM Bar in downtown Kalispell, Shane brings 10+ years of culinary experience to Kalispell's newest dining establishments.

With roots planted in made-from-scratch cooking and hands-on experience that spans South Dakota, New Orleans and Montana, Shane guides a culinary team that serves Montana-inspired foods – including smoked trout, wagyu burgers and bison ribeye – alongside dishes that feature fresh fish, seafood and lamb to a clientele made up of local residents and out-of-state visitors. They also work with 10+ local purveyors to include as many grown-right-here ingredients as possible.

Three favorite things about Kalispell. 1.

The proximity to the wilderness, including Glacier National Park and the Bob Marshall Wilderness Complex. 2. The people – it's a good mix of locals and visitors. 3. The seasonality. The whole valley changes from winter to summer, with each season bringing its own array of activities.

How do you spend a free afternoon?

In the winter, you'll find me snowshoeing. In the summer, I'll be floating, rafting or hiking.

Insider tips for visitors: Look beyond Glacier National Park. There are great trails in the area – like Columbia Mountain and Mount Aeneas – that are just as good for hiking and have great views. While you're here, go out and experience different foods and check out places that aren't popping up right away on Google.

Favorite dishes: Bison ribeye, tuna carpaccio and our pork chop.

“Kalispell is the future of the food scene. Culturally for the valley, it's the largest city and downtown is readily changing, growing and anchoring the area.”

WINERIES AND DISTILLERIES

There's no better way to end your day than enjoying a local craft beverage from breweries, wineries, distilleries and cideries. In northwest Montana, you'll find a unique array of craft drinks, each made with care, pride and a splash of Big Sky Country. To help you taste Montana, we asked the makers and shakers in the area to highlight popular wine and spirits.

DISTILLERIES

GLACIER DISTILLING COMPANY

North Fork

The rye gives a bit of spice and earthy roundness with a sweet finish. Take that perfect balance of grains, let it mellow in a charred American white oak barrel and you get a flavorful, full-bodied whiskey.

PORTAL SPIRITS

Flathead Fog

This rum pays tribute to Flathead Lake, with a splash of vanilla and a perfect touch of bergamot. A slight hint of that old world oak taste rounds out this unique and delicious rum. While it's a local distillery, it does not have a tasting room; find it at area liquor stores and bars.

WHISTLING ANDY DISTILLING

Cucumber Gin

Eight botanical and subtle cucumber notes beneath the body give this dry gin a smooth yet crisp spirit.

WHITEFISH HANDCRAFTED SPIRITS

Orange Clove Rum

A warm hug of citrus, cinnamon and clove, it's perfect in any form. Try it on the rocks or mix it with fresh lime, raw sugar and seltzer water for the best "sugar dog" ever.

WINERIES

WILLIE'S DISTILLERY

Huckleberry Sweet Cream Liqueur

A special Montana treat, this sweet cream huckleberry liqueur is made in Ennis, MT and is a great addition to hot cocoa, as an ice cream topping or added to a raspberry hard seltzer. Find it at local liquor stores and bars.

WINERIES

WATER'S EDGE WINERY & BISTRO

The Ruby Crowned Kinglet

A one-of-a-kind red blend, this marries Chilean Rojo and California Old Vine Zinfandel to produce a rich-on-the-palate red.

GLACIER SUN WINERY

Huckleberry Peace Wine

Made with hand-picked wild Montana huckleberries, it's slightly sweet and perfect for a warm summer evening.

UNLEASHED A WINERY

Good Catch

This pinot grigio has gentle aromas of apple and pear, while its palate is vibrant, fresh and juicy, with citrus and melon notes.

MONTAVINO

2019 Red Blend Reserve

This beautifully balanced Bordeaux-style blend of cabernet sauvignon, merlot, cabernet franc, petit verdot and malbec is rich and smooth with complex aromas of rose, vanilla, dark cherries, raspberries and cedar.

BUCKET LIST ADVENTURES

LLAMA TREKKING

Located a short drive from Kalispell, Swan Mountain Llama Trekking offers a wide variety of llama pack trips for both beginner and experienced hikers. Treks range from three hours to multi-day trips into the Bob Marshall Wilderness and wine and cheese outings to llama packing clinics. Gentle animals, llamas make great trail partners and can carry up to 80 pounds of gear.

WINTER KAYAKING

While playing on open water isn't the first thing that comes to mind in winter, paddling a kayak on Flathead Lake with Sea Me Paddle is a must-do activity. In winter, the lake's water levels drop about nine feet, allowing kayakers to see the natural features of the lake bottom in and around Somers Bay as kayaks quietly cut through the lake's icy waters. Take in the view of snow-capped mountain peaks and keep your eyes open for bald eagles and other treasures.

DOG SLEDDING

An old-school thrill, dog sledding is one of the best ways to experience the great outdoors. It's the perfect blend of adventure and grace in Montana's snowy landscapes, especially if you love dogs. Two northwest Montana companies – Dog Sled Adventures and Base Camp Bigfork – are locally owned and operated with well-trained teams of dogs that include Alaskan huskies, Inuit sled dogs and rescue pups, with all of them built to pull sleds.

What originally brought me to this area was the beautiful mountains, lakes and rivers easily accessible right in our backyard. I love that northwest Montana allows you to be active and fish year-round. No matter what experience level, there's something for everyone.

FISH MONTANA

In northwest Montana, we're surrounded by incredible lakes, streams and fly-fishing opportunities. To the south, you'll find Flathead Lake and the Swan River. To the northeast, you'll quickly come upon the Middle, North and South forks of the Flathead River. And to the northwest you'll find the massive waters of Lake Kootenai. Our surrounding mountains are also home to a variety of streams and high alpine lakes.

Here's what you might be reeling in when angling in and around Montana's Flathead Valley.

PIKE

The masters of camouflage, pike tend to thrive in standing or slow-moving waters of lakes, reservoirs and streams, especially where dense vegetation grows. Fish for them on the South Fork of the Flathead River.

TROUT

There are many species of trout in Montana's rivers and lakes, including rainbow, brook, brown, lake, cutthroat and bull trout. Reel in trout on the Flathead River and at Lake Kootenai.

BASS

Members of the sunfish family, largemouth bass are found in northwest Montana, especially in areas with weedy ponds or sloughs. Bass-fishing locations include Flathead Lake, Echo Lake and the Flathead River.

While you can hit the waters of Montana on your own, be sure you purchase a Montana fishing license and familiarize yourself with fishing regulations. Want to go with a pro? Book a trip with an experienced guide. Recommendations include A Able Fishing Charters & Tours, Glacier Outdoor Center/Glacier Raft Company, Glacier Guides and Montana Raft, Howe's Fishing, Swan Mountain Outfitters and True Water Fly Shop.

IMPORTANT REMINDER: When recreating in Montana, protect our waters by following the three steps of Clean, Drain, Dry, as this helps minimize the risk of spreading aquatic invasive species to new locations.

Routes that Will Take your Breath Away

Whether your preferred mode of transportation is a bicycle, motorcycle or car, a scenic drive takes on a whole new meaning in northwest Montana. Everywhere you look there are soaring snow-capped mountains and crystal-clear lakes and rivers, with pastoral farmlands in the valley between. As you cruise along Montana's highways and byways, plan to take your time. Stop along the way to explore a state park, take a walk on a trail or peruse a local gallery or shop. You'll also find plenty of options to stop for a bite or drink at a local restaurant or watering hole.

HUNGRY HORSE RESERVOIR

Hungry Horse Dam and Hungry Horse Reservoir are located 20 miles northeast of Kalispell. Sitting at 564 feet high, the dam is one of the largest concrete arch dams in the country and its spillway is the highest in the world. The reservoir, which is on the South Fork of the Flathead River, is 34 miles long and surrounded by towering mountain peaks. While exploring the area, be sure to allow time to hike, fish or swim, as well as take a free guided tour at the Hungry Horse Dam Visitor Center, which is open May - September.

FLATHEAD LAKE LOOP

One of the most scenic drives in the state, this loop takes you around Flathead Lake. As you circumvent the largest natural freshwater lake in the West, you'll travel through small towns, all of which are home to tasty restaurants, cherry orchards, galleries, jaw-dropping views and must-see places, like the Miracle of America Museum in Polson. The southern half of the lake is on the Flathead Indian Reservation, which is home to the Confederated Salish and Kootenai Tribes, and includes the Seli's Ksanka Qlispe' Dam on the Flathead River in Polson. On your return trip, drive along Montana Highway 35 and stop in Bigfork to stroll its storybook-like downtown before returning to Kalispell.

KALISPELL TO LIBBY LOOP

Travel north from Kalispell on U.S. Highway 93 through Whitefish to Eureka, a charming town that sits in the lush Tobacco Valley just five minutes south of the Canadian border. After making a stop in Eureka, continue on Montana Highway 37 to the Koocanusa Bridge and travel to the small community of Yaak. While here, check out Yaak Falls before driving along the Kootenai River and through Troy before reaching Kootenai Falls. Be sure to stop here and take the forested trail to the Kootenai Falls Swinging Bridge. After soaking in scenery that was featured in The River Wild and The Revenant, continue to Libby and stop at the Heritage Museum before returning to Kalispell.

Approximate distance: 269 miles.

VISIT DOWNTOWN KALISPELL MT. MUSEUMS TODAY!

While modern-day Kalispell was founded in 1891, Montana's history dates back thousands of years to when glaciers carved out the area's terrain, from high mountain valleys in Glacier National Park to the lakes tucked throughout the Flathead Valley. With deep roots and a rich history made up of American Indian Nations, early pioneers and settlers, fur trappers and more, Kalispell holds many keys to the past while looking firmly ahead to the future and providing experiences to help soak up every moment along the way.

THE CONRAD MANSION MUSEUM

If you ask an area local, chances are they are familiar with the name Charles E. Conrad. Regarded as Kalispell's founder, Conrad established this modern-day mountain town in 1891 and built a beautiful Victorian-style home for his family in 1895. From the flower-filled gardens and grounds to the inside of this 13,000-square-foot mansion, the museum has done an incredible job of keeping many of the original fixtures, furniture and clothing of the Conrad family in its 26 rooms.

THE NORTHWEST MONTANA HISTORY MUSEUM

Explore the valley's deepest roots and earliest industries through four permanent exhibits at the Northwest Montana History Museum. Housed in an 1894 schoolhouse, the museum offers exhibits on regional American Indian history, the early timber industry and the valley's earliest European settlers.

HOCKADAY MUSEUM OF ART

The museum itself is housed in a stunning classical-revival-style building, originally erected as the town library in 1901. In addition to rotating exhibits, it has a permanent "Crown of the Continent" exhibition that features 15 historic Glacier National Park murals, as well as work from some of the best-known Western artists, including Charles M. Russell and O.C. Seltzer.

MONTANA'S FIRST NATIONS

ROOTED IN PLACE

The story of Montana is centuries in the making. For thousands of years, Indian nations have called this part of the world home, with many tribes – including the Blackfeet, Salish, Pend d'Oreille and Kootenai – using the lands in and around modern-day Glacier National Park for ceremonies, hunting, fishing and more. Today, there are two Indian reservations that are a short drive from Kalispell — the Blackfeet Nation and the Flathead Indian reservation. Our best advice: immerse yourself during a visit and get to know Montana's First Nations.

THE BLACKFEET NATION, which encompasses 1.5 million acres on the east side of Glacier National Park, is home to the state's largest tribe — the Blackfeet. Known as the “warriors of the plains,” today approximately 10,000 enrolled members of the tribe live on the reservation, including Mariah Gladstone.

An enrolled member of the Blackfeet and Cherokee tribes, Mariah is the force behind Indigikitchen, an online cooking show that is aimed at giving viewers the tools they need to source and prepare foods within their own communities. Indigikitchen began with the desire to change the health epidemic in Indian Country around diet-related illnesses.

“There are so many solutions in traditional foods,” said Gladstone. “There has been intentional disconnection from our foods and we have to revitalize both knowledge and access...through classes, resources and more, while creating things that families want to eat at the end of the day.”

In this endeavor, Mariah works with tribes from all over, with a focus on foods from Montana, including wild greens like lambsquarters and fireweed, root vegetables (such as bitterroot and prairie turnips) and various wild berries made up of strawberries, raspberries, serviceberries, huckleberries and chokecherries. She also works with native producers, creates recipes and helps to reteach knowledge that was nearly lost.

While the pandemic highlighted flaws – including lack of deliveries – that were occurring within food systems on several reservations and in rural destinations, for many tribal nations this spurred additional efforts to dig in on the work being done around food sovereignty, including introducing/expanding bison herds, growing hemp, honey harvesting and more.

“It showed that even amidst the chaos there are so many bright points,” said Gladstone. “When we know where our food comes from, we have a better understanding toward providing for the area where it grows. If our food comes from a stream, we’re more likely to take care of that place and that extends throughout the whole food system.”

For Gladstone, her interest in native foods grew when she was away from Montana and the food she grew up on, like wild game and wild rice. “For me, those foods were rooted in home and rooted in place.”

THE FLATHEAD RESERVATION is located south of Kalispell. Its 1.3 million acres are home to the Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes, as well as diverse landscapes like the lower half of Flathead Lake, the Mission Mountains and the Jocko Valley. There are also several communities within the reservation's boundaries, including Polson, Ronan, Charlo and St. Ignatius.

THREE CHIEFS CULTURAL CENTER

Located in St. Ignatius is the Three Chiefs Cultural Center (formerly known as The People's Center, which was located in Pablo from 1995 through 2020 until it burned due to arson).

The center was rebranded as Three Chiefs Cultural Center to honor the three tribes that make up the Flathead Reservation: the Salish (Bitterroot Salish), Qlispe (Pend d'Oreilles) and Ksanka (Kootenai).

“BEING ABLE TO WALK AROUND THE LANDSCAPES AND GO ON HIKES AND SEE ALL THESE LITTLE CONNECTIONS, YOU BECOME SO MUCH MORE ROOTED IN PLACE.” -MARIAH GLADSTONE

Marie Torosian is the program director of Three Chiefs, having been there since 2003. She was born on the reservation and spent the majority of her life in the area. Marie is Bitterroot Salish and Qlispe, and a first-generation descendant of the Coeur d'Alene Tribe of Idaho.

The Three Chiefs Cultural Center includes a gift shop and a small museum gallery for the artifacts that were restored from the fire, and also offers education programs. Classes and activities are available year-round by being returned while the rest are being restored and will return to the center over the next year.

Marie noted that what she’d most like for visitors to Three Chiefs to come away knowing is the understanding of the three tribes. She invites visitors to learn about the tribes’ history through exhibits and activities.

Want to help restore the pieces and artifacts with Three Chiefs Cultural Center? Make a donation toward ongoing operating costs and restoration costs for artifacts damaged in the fire. The center also needs a permanent home.

Beyond Three Chiefs, must-see places on the Flathead Indian Reservation include the 18,500-acre Bison Range, Ninepipes Museum, Seli’s Ksanka Qlispe’ Dam (Kerr Dam) and Garden of One Thousand Buddhas.

RECREATIONAL MARIJUANA: WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

While it's not legal at the federal level, Montana residents voted in favor of approving recreational marijuana and as of January 1, 2022, any adult 21 years or older can consume marijuana in the state of Montana and purchase in approved counties including Flathead County (Kalispell). Consumers can buy a variety of products, including marijuana flower, edibles and concentrates.

As this is new for Montana, there are some things you need to know:

- An individual may purchase up to one ounce of marijuana per transaction.
- The legal limit of marijuana you are allowed to possess is one ounce. Any amount over that is considered illegal and can be subject to fines.
- You cannot consume cannabis in public. Be sure to check with the place you're staying – hotel, motel, vacation house, etc. – to see if they allow consumption on their property.
- It's against the law to cross state lines or fly with marijuana. If you buy it here, be sure to consume it here.
- The use of marijuana is still prohibited on all federal lands and waters, including Glacier National Park and U.S. forests.
- Don't drive while under the influence of marijuana, as it can result in a DUI.
- While there is no statewide sales tax in Montana, marijuana purchases include a flat 20% sale tax.
