REDISCOVER KALISPELL WITH FORREST MANKINS

In a place like Montana, it's easy to get swept up in the scenic beauty that's found in practically every direction, from glacier-carved mountains to the lush valley and rushing rivers. And while all that is well and good, there is one thing that remains the steady heartbeat of this place – the people. Kalispell isn't just one thing and neither are the people who call it home.

To help us lean into Kalispell and remind us all what makes it so special, we enlisted the help of Forrest Mankins, a Flathead Valley photographer. With an eye for storytelling through imagery, he captures the grit, charm and life of locals who choose to make Kalispell and northwest Montana their home. As for us? We're going to rediscover what makes this valley remarkable right alongside Forrest as he continues to meet other locals and tell the many diverse stories of Kalispell. ADD STEWARDSHIP TO YOUR ITINERARY

Welcome to northwest Montana, a place that's home to jaw-dropping terrain, crystal clear waterways and charming small towns. Since Kalispell is surrounded by some of Montana's iconic natural wonders – Glacier National Park and Flathead Lake – it seems fitting that we do our part to take care of it.

Here's how you can leave a positive impact when visiting:

PLAY IT SAFE IN MONTANA'S LAKES AND RIVERS

As it's fed by glaciers and snowmelt, Montana's water is cold. Use extra care, as it's easy to slip on logs or rocks. Be safe, wear a PFD (personal flotation device) and get all watercraft inspected.

RESPECT PUBLIC AND PRIVATE LAND

Public trails may cross over private land. Be respectful and stay on the established trail.

LET WILDLIFE BE WILD

Around here, wildlife is just that – wild. If you see bears, elk, wolves, bighorn sheep and more, be sure to give them their space. When recreating outdoors, hike in a group, carry and know how to use bear spray and let wildlife know you're here by hootin' and hollerin'.

LOVE THE OUTDOORS

Around here, it's easy to have a positive impact on the landscapes. Share the trail and be considerate of your fellow adventurers, and be sure to pack it in, pack it out.

ACTIVELY PREVENT WILDLAND FIRES

While fire is part of Montana's natural landscapes and ecosystem, human-caused fires are not. Be sure to have campfires in approved areas and fully extinguish any fires.

GET INVOLVED

If you'd like to do more, take advantage of volunteer opportunities in and around Kalispell and support the local non-profits that manage the trails and protect the waters enjoyed by all of us.

Learn more about how to recreate responsibly at [discoverkalispell.com/recreate-responsibly]

MONTANA'S BIGGEST SECRET? FLATHEAD LAKE

The largest natural freshwater lake in the West, Flathead Lake remains an undiscovered gem. With 185 miles of shoreline and encompassing nearly 200 square miles, Flathead Lake is one of the clearest lakes in the country. Carved out by massive glaciers during the ice age, today the lake is fed by snowmelt from the Rocky Mountains, including the Bob Marshall Wilderness and Glacier National Park.

Both on and off the water, recreational opportunities on Flathead Lake are seemingly endless. Take in its vast expanse on a road trip that circles the lake via U.S. Highway 93 on the west side of the lake and Highway 35 on the east side. Seven state parks, as well as various overlooks and access points, line the shore of the lake and provide easy access to beaches, boat launches and the lake's islands.

For on-the-water fun, enjoy guided fishing for massive lake trout, kayak the bays of Flathead Lake, soak up the sun on lakeshore beaches, cool off with a swim, take a guided boat cruise, paddle out and explore Wild Horse Island State Park and enjoy water sports like, water skiing and stand-up paddleboarding.

And while it may seem like recreation on Flathead Lake is limited to summer, you can find four-season adventures. Walk the sandy beaches of Somers Beach State Park during fall, winter and spring when the waters are low and explore Juniper Islands in Somers Bay on a kayak. As weather can change quickly, be sure to go with a guide, especially during winter.

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK

CROWN OF THE CONTINENT

Encompassing 1 million acres, Glacier National Park is known as the Backbone of the World and leaves an imprint of all who come to visit. Carved by glaciers thousands of years ago, today the park encompasses several ecological areas with a wide variety of macro and micro habitats, with 71 species of mammals, 276 species of birds, 1,132 species of plants and three species of reptiles. Inside the park's boundaries are the iconic Going-to-the-Sun Road, 734 miles of trails, more than 700 lakes and a handful of glaciers.

From Kalispell, Glacier National Park's west entrance is a scenic 32-mile drive, making it the perfect home base for exploring the park. The west entrance, which is located just past the town of West Glacier, provides direct access to both the Going-to-the-Sun Road and Camas Road, as well as to Apgar Village and Lake McDonald. During the summer season, the 52-mile-long Going-to-the-Sun Road is open in its entirety (exact dates fluctuate as it's weather dependent), taking travelers through the heart of the park over Logan Pass and out via the park's east entrance in St. Mary. While the entirety of the park is accessible during the summer, it is also the busiest time to visit and a vehicle reservation timed-entry system is in place June 13-September 28, 2025.

Autumn brings colorful fall foliage, pleasant temperatures and prime wildlife-watching opportunities to the glacial-carved landscapes of Glacier National Park. This time of year offers a similar experience to summer, but with fewer visitors. When planning a fall visit to the park, keep in mind that the full length of the Going-to-the-Sun Road is typically open through early October (weather dependent) and provides easy access to trails and scenic overlooks along the road's corridor.

In the depths of winter, the Crown of the Continent is full of shades of bright glacier blue ice and snow-covered terrain, accented by the sun's rays to create sparkling, dancing landscapes. Step into cross-country skis or snowshoes to experience the serenity surrounded by towering crags, pure quietness and the babble of McDonald Creek. Experience the park with a guide on an excursion with Glacier Institute or SeaMe Paddle. Reminder: even if you don't want to venture into the snow, you can always drive to Apgar Village for a picture-perfect view of Lake McDonald. We recommend timing your visit to sign with alpenglow or to witness the aurora borealis (northern lights).

Spring in Glacier National Park brings hiker and biker access to the Going-to-the-Sun Road before it opens to vehicle traffic, as well as the opening of lower-elevation trails. Vehicles are able to drive to Lake McDonald Lodge or Avalanche Creek on the west side, and can also set out on U.S. Highway 2 along the southern border of the park to access Rising Sun on the east side, depending on snow removal. Bikes and e-bikes are available for rent in Apgar Village, Kalispell or by taking a guided bike tour with Glacier Guides.

For an in-depth look at Glacier National Park, explore beyond well-traveled paths and dig deeper by participating in a cultural program or guided tour.

Held June-September, the NATIVE AMERICA SPEAKS program shares the history and culture of the Blackfeet, Salish, Kootenai and Pend d'Oreille tribes. Tribal members share through stories, singing and other presentations, with programs taking place at park campgrounds and lodges. The St. Mary Visitor Center also has interactive exhibits on several tribal nations, including their ties to the park.

LARCH MADNESS

While Montana isn't typically high on the list for chasing fall colors, our region may surprise you. The mountains and valleys welcome an array of autumn foliage, with a particular emphasis on golds, yellows and oranges. From the glacial-carved terrain of Glacier National Park to the tree-lined avenues near downtown Kalispell, there are abundant places to soak up the changing colors of autumn.

Tamarack trees, also known as western larch, add a unique golden touch, and are exclusive to the north west spanning from the Cascades in Washington to the Rocky Mountains in Montana and north to British Columbia. Each fall, the needles turn yellow before dropping, showcasing their beauty. Notably, Western Larch, the largest of the larch genus, can grow up to 150 feet tall and live over 700 years. The world's largest recorded larch tree, nicknamed "Gus", stands tall near Seeley Lake, south of Kalispell.

Beyond the trees, autumn offers warm days, cool nights, and fewer visitors. Recommended activities for soaking in the array of fall colors include:

- Floating the Middle Fork of the Flathead River
- Biking Rails to Trails of NW MT
- Hiking the trails on Blacktail Mountain
- Trekking with llamas in the Swan Mountains
- Exploring the Hungry Horse Reservoir area, renowned for its tamarack forests
- Helicopter tours with Red Eagle Aviation

Experience the magic of autumn in Montana, where gold hues paint the landscape and adventure awaits.

SWAN MOUNTAIN OUTFITTERS

WHERE FAMILY, MONTANA AND MOUNTAINS MEET

With more than 25 years of experience in and around northwest Montana, Swan Mountain Outfitters is a true definition of a family-owned and -operated business. While it originally started as a one-offering company, today it includes horseback trail rides, a wilderness guide school, llama treks, hunting trips, guided fly-fishing, snowmobiling and the Crown of the Continent Discovery Center.

At the helm of the operation are a brother and sister duo – Patrick Tabor and Aubrie Lorona – as well as Patrick's wife Megan and Aubrie's husband Erik. Each sibling has their own area of expertise, which helps the operation run smoothly and gives guests the best experiences possible.

When it comes to horseback trail rides in northwest Montana, Swan Mountain Outfitters offers the most robust options. Guided rides are offered inside Glacier National Park at Many Glacier, Apgar and Lake McDonald, as well as outside the park in West Glacier and the Swan Valley, which sits south of Kalispell. Rides range from one hour to all-day adventures. The best part: the horses are athletic and made for the mountains, giving riders a glimpse into terrain that's been carved by glaciers, including epic views of the Crown of the Continent.

Beyond horseback trail rides, guests can also explore more off-the-beaten-path areas of northwest Montana through guided adventures with Swan Mountain Outfitters. Hit the waters of Swan Lake or the Swan River on a guided fly-fishing trip. Get off-grid with a multi-day pack trip in the summer or guided hunt during fall and winter. Guests can spend up to seven days on backcountry trips, led by a seasoned guide, and see parts of Montana that can only be accessed by foot or horseback.

For an entirely different experience, take a trek with the camels of the clouds – llamas.

From quick afternoon outings to multi-day treks, hiking with llamas is a serene way to enjoy the Swan Mountains. Plus, llamas haul the gear, leaving you to simply soak in the scenery along the trail.

Shifting to winter, when the snow falls on Montana's mountains, the horses and llamas officially go off-duty and snowmobiles replace them on trails and terrain. Swan Mountain Snowmobiling offers sled rentals and guided snowmobile adventures, with excursions that take you deep into the heart of untouched terrain, offering glimpses into snow-covered forests and high alpine valleys. And while you can rent a snowmobile, it's recommended to go with a guide for the best and safest experience possible.

VENTURE BOLDLY

AMPLIFY GROWTH, MANAGE CHANGE,
FUEL POTENTIAL.

The community of Kalispell continues to evolve, adapting to growth and change in our picturesque northwest Montana mountain town. Embracing the mantra of “Venture Boldly,” the Discover Kalispell Chamber is taking a decisive step forward in 2025 by amplifying growth through advocacy, strategic development, and unlocking potential. While 2024 brought market adjustments—including rising interest rates and a slight dip in tourism—workforce availability and housing inventory have seen welcome improvements. We remain steadfast in tackling these critical issues to ensure sustainable growth and robust job creation.

Significant strides have been made in housing, with a surge in multi-family units coming online and a resurgence of single-family home permits in early 2025. Dedicated local developers continue to revitalize our downtown core, addressing housing challenges and fostering a vibrant, interconnected community. With new ownership of the Kalispell Center Mall and expanding commercial growth in north Kalispell, our city is solidifying its role as the trade hub for northwest Montana. Ranked as the sixth fastest-growing micropolitan city in the U.S., Kalispell is well-positioned for long-term economic strength.

KALISPELL'S ECONOMIC STRENGTH

HEALTHCARE

Kalispell's healthcare sector continues to grow, ensuring a thriving and healthy community. Logan Health, the region's independent healthcare system, merged with Billings Clinic in 2024, creating a statewide network. Rural healthcare demands innovation, and partnerships such as ALERT (Logan Health's Air Ambulance), Two Bear Air Search and Rescue, and local EMS providers play a crucial role in meeting community needs.

ADVANCED MANUFACTURING

Montana is home to over 4,000 manufacturers, with 903 located in Flathead County. Kalispell has seen significant expansion in boutique manufacturing, from distilleries to mobile command units, label production, botanics, wood products, and firearms. As part of the designated rural area for the Headwaters Tech Hub—focused on smart photonic sensing—Montana is competing for CHIPS and Science Act funding to drive regional innovation, job creation, and technological advancement. The state's ambitious 10-year goal includes securing $10 billion, launching 1,000 new companies, and creating 10,000 new jobs.

Discover Kalispell's 2024 Manufacturing Month was a resounding success, with 15 manufacturers hosting 44 tours for students, parents, and the public.

TOURISM

Kalispell is a premier destination, surrounded by breathtaking landscapes and a rich array of outdoor adventures. While visitor numbers have slightly declined since the 2021 peak, this shift has enhanced the experience, making exploration more enjoyable. New amenities and attractions continue to emerge, strengthening Kalispell's appeal. Our exceptional outfitters, guides, trails, and national park, Flathead National Forest, rivers, and Flathead Lake create an unforgettable Montana experience.

CULTURE

The Wachholz College Center has become a cultural cornerstone, drawing national artists, storytellers, and performances. This 58,000-square-foot facility on the Flathead Valley Community College campus seamlessly blends education with entertainment, hosting the renowned Glacier Symphony and other major events. Visit wachholzcollegecenter.org for the 2025 calendar.

EDUCATION

Kalispell boasts award-winning K-12 schools and a top-tier community college. Career Technical Education (CTE) is a priority, with a five-year transformational grant advancing School District 5's partnership with local businesses. Flathead Valley Community College continues to provide high-quality training for an evolving workforce. 2025 will mark the ribbon cutting and grand opening of the Wachholz Center for Entrepreneurialism. WorkforceFlathead.com, led by the Discover Kalispell Chamber, serves as a vital hub for workforce development.

COMMUNITY

Kalispell is a place for bold visionaries, entrepreneurs, and outdoor enthusiasts. With year-round festivals, first-class restaurants, ski resorts, breweries, distilleries, hiking trails, and Glacier National Park, adventure is never far away. Entrepreneurialism ventures boldly in the Flathead. The spirit of exploration and innovation thrives in our town, making Kalispell a premier destination to live, work, and play.

LOCAL

For those of us who call Kalispell and northwest Montana home, we know how special this community is, from the beautiful mountains to miles of trails and stunning landscapes. And while those are all wonderful attributes, the best thing about Kalispell is you. As locals, you're the heartbeat of this place, the engine that keeps everything moving. We know how important the tourism economy is to everyone who hangs their hats in Kalispell, and we also know how vital it is that our destination is managed in a sustainable and respectful way. Thank you for doing your part, showing up every day and loving Kalispell through all its seasons, ebbs and flows and mountains and valleys.
